140th International Summer Course

August 06 to 12, 2023

Safety and Site Plan

These are the most important safety rules that have to be respected on the BASF site:

- While on the site, your visitor badges must be worn and visible at all times.
- Instructions from security personnel or other authorized personnel must be followed promptly.
- Cameras and electronic recording equipment must be handed in at the gate, together with the associated film and memory material.
- Permission is needed for notebooks, USB-sticks and other storage media.
- It is strictly forbidden to use mobile phones to take pictures.
Please keep your mobile phones switched off during the course.
- No alcohol, no smoking or open fires are permitted.
- Please do not enter buildings or plants that are not necessary for your course.
- Documents and drawings relating to BASF may only be removed from the site if distributed for that purpose.
- Sturdy shoes (e.g. no sandals / high heels), long-sleeved clothes and long pants are required when visiting production plants.

Welcome

Since 1949, BASF has invited PhD students to visit the company and strengthen the scientific exchange between future scientists. Ever since those early days, the BASF International Summer Course has attracted more and more talents from all over the world.

The course takes place at the Ludwigshafen Verbund Site, the largest integrated chemical production site in the world and the major hub of our global research community. The course offers participants an inspiring environment, the opportunity to get authentic insights into work life at BASF and the chance to network with other participants as well as BASF colleagues.

Together with digital specialists, engineers and scientists from all over the world, you are invited to take an active and creative part in shaping this course. We welcome you and hope you will spend an unforgettable time here with us.
